Customer Reviews

So how do you say goodbye to this dynamic duo...without feeling so choked up you could hardly speak, tears threatening to fall? It's like saying goodbye to your own best friends. Since I've come to love and know Blake and Lana so well, they've become so much a part of me. They sometimes come to mind when I lay silently in bed at night, wishing I have the kind of love they share that has me inspired. How many successful authors able to that, where after reading a great story, you're not able to let go. This is one of the very few books I love where I couldn't wait to finish it, yet dreading for it to come to an end. You just fall in love with Blake and Lana from the very beginning to the end,

I ran through a gamut of emotions through the entirety of this fascinating journey. I cried, got mad, upset and scared I cringed. Though some scenes got me feeling apprehensive my hands felt cold, some scenes are so sizzling hot that had my heart beating fast and erratic, the feeling was ecstatic! Now that they're gone, I'm feeling bereft I so want them back! At the end of the first book, THE BILLIONAIRE BANKER, where Lana and Blake separated, I began to wonder how the author is going to bring them back together without seeming contrived, but Ms. Le Carre is so freaking brilliant and clever she came up with a twist so believable I couldn't wait to devour FORTY 2 DAYS. And even more clever in how she keeps them together. I've never seen an author so ingeniously weave such a crazy but completely believable set of events that get you so wrapped up it's a struggle to be able to put it down. Lana is beautiful, kind to a fault, forgiving but strong, no matter how sometimes things seem hopeless, she blossoms into a caring and loving young woman.

I gave Besotted 3.5 Stars. Besotted is the third book in the Billionaire Banker series, it picks up immediately Forty Two days. Admittedly, there were still some elements of the storyline I didn't understand such as the sacrifice Lana was talking about and the history with Blake's father but I got enough information to follow the storyline. I did worry this book was going to be a "filler" or stopgap as such and in one sense that was true, the plot didn't move along greatly for Blake and Lana but on the other hand, I really enjoyed reading about their relationship and it was great to see them grow closer as a couple. In terms of writing style, this was my favourite so far by Georgia, I found myself highlighting several passages and I truly believed in the declarations between Blake and Lana. At times, their dialogue did seem stilted and unnatural but I felt this lessened as the story progressed. "His mouth moves in closer and closer until his lips meet mine. I open my mouth to taste him. Ah... He enters my soul. In the shadows of our bedroom, time stills. "There is no one else but you, Lana. You've got me so I can't even think straight. "His eyes move hungrily over my face. "I crave your mouth, your skin, your hair. Every morning I wake up ravenous for you, then I pace around during the day starving for you, and at night just after I've had you I start to crave your hot, sweet body all over again. "Both Blake and Lana's characters continue to grow, Lana is more confident within herself (the love of a good man will do that to you) and with the truth about Sorab out in the open, Lana could truly be herself.
